How business is changing

Basic business principles and core elements of the business model, such as accounting and stock control, have remained constant throughout the years. Many software products are aimed at managing each of these component parts of an organisation. Recently though, business has begun to change in a way that is leaving many people wondering how to move forward and remain competitive. Artificial intelligence can perform tasks in seconds that would take employees months to carry out manually. It can recognise and predict trends that can save large organisations millions in maintenance, or can win huge amounts of business through automated marketing strategies.

Every business now faces the same decision. Do they take the plunge and modernise by entering a new world they don't fully understand, or cling to old practices for as long as they can and hope for the best. Unfortunately for those who decide to wait, on their current course, they will likely start to go out of business in the next few years, after which, it will probably be too late to save their business.

Tucalo take great satisfaction in knowing we help our clients and their businesses avoid looming disaster and instead, help them face automation head on and come out the other side with a thriving business that's future proofed, way ahead of competitors, and ready for exponential growth.

Read on to find out how Tucalo can help your business enter the new world of automation and move all your business operations to one single platform.

Andy - Director of Tucalo

Ai digitisation - it's what we do

What will save your business in the long term?

Standard workforces face the challenge of not being able to work around the clock every day of every year. They can't scan millions of pages on thousands of websites for data, work day and night non-stop on your database, preparing invoices, sending customers offers, looking for new business, checking diaries for gaps and fill them, find more effective ways for your business to operate, phase out products that are near end of life cycle, analyse data to predict maintenance life cycle of assets, prepare optimised plans using panoptic view and complex algorithms giving ultimate safety and ROI. And ... there's so much more.

The new Ai Work Agent from Tucalo can do all of these tasks and keep going way beyond that. Our Ai Work Agents manage our robot pool, providing you with capability you never dreamed of. Ai robot pool works non-stop, can work to scheduled tasks and be re-assigned to deal with spikes in workflow. They work around the clock, out of hours through world time zones where necessary, and they never stop. If ever their seemingly impossible capabilities actually do get outstripped, our Ai Work Management Agents will have already forecast this and let us know ahead of time so we can install more robots and scale up our infrastructure to the new scale capability.

This is the new world of business, and although it may seem daunting to some of us, businesses who fail to harness this technology will simply be left behind as those who modernise get faster, more efficient, and begin to dominate the markets. So why wait, contact us today to find out how you can take that vital step and futureproof your business.

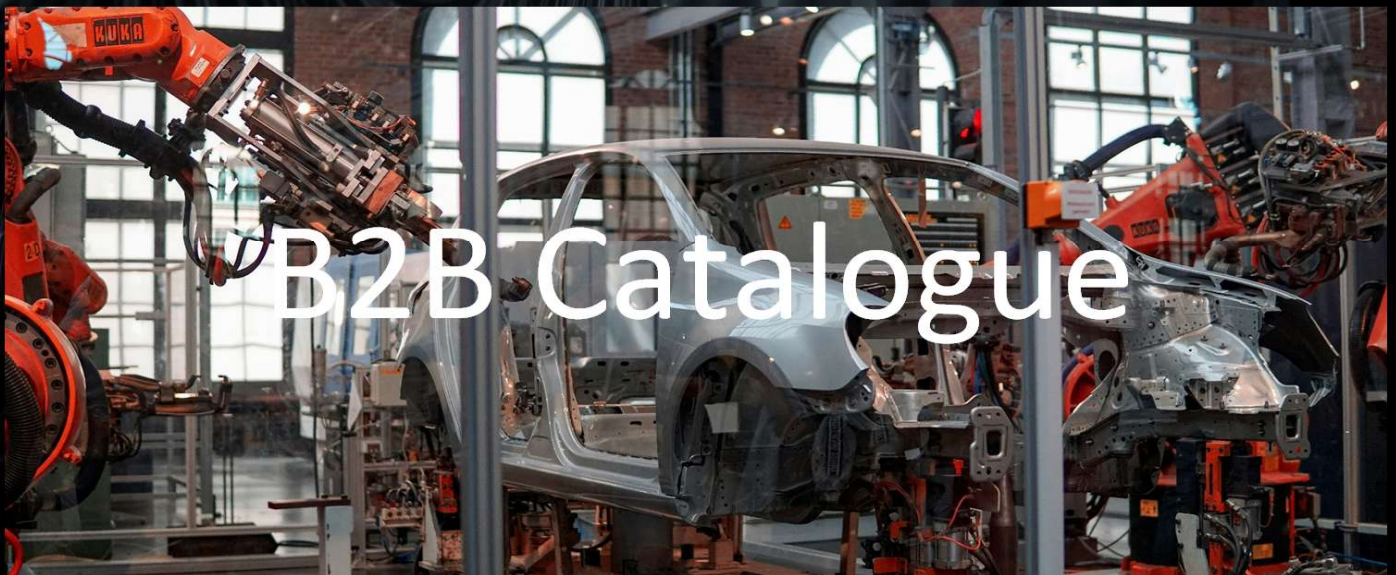

Watch your business grow while your workload diminishes

High volume automation with our Ai Work Agents will quickly diminish your workload, while our new connectionless database technology, with vaulted data, protects your business. Combined with our in-memory sanitisation triggers to purge cyber attacks, Ai Work Agent brings a new era of cyber security.

Spanning multiple industries and scalable to any organisation size from small start-up to enterprise level, Tucalo can always help your business. Our end to end processes cover everything from shop floor and on the ground engineering to Director level activities and decision making.

We have now combined Ai Work Agent with our business to business catalogue, which is managed by Tucalo. This has allowed us to offer integrated products straight into your software and customer website for resale at retail level or on a further B2B basis if you're an agent. The catalogue also incorporates both open and closed tendering
